BACKGROUND

Open water swimming has become very popular, but many people wonder what lies beneath. Scuba diving offers people the chance to experience something truly unique, but opportunities to try the sport for the first time aren't always easy to find.

As a small, friendly local club, Erewash and Midlands Scuba Divers offers opportunities for local people to try or train in scuba diving, especially those under-represented in the sport, such as young people and women.

The support from Legacy Leisure's Community Grant Funding has helped the club acquire equipment for use by trainees, try divers and members; that means they can offer opportunities for local people to try scuba diving without having to make a big financial commitment, until they are confident that they want to progress.
